SPECTROPHOTOMETER export price Information and reports on SPECTROPHOTOMETER Exports along with detailed shipment data, import price, export price, monthly.

Key Takeaways

Spectrometer export prices vary widely depending on type, features, and market, typically ranging from a few thousand to over $100,000 per unit.

Export Data Overview

Globally, there were 52 verified OES spectrometer export shipments involving 33 exporters and 32 buyers, with no significant year-over-year change in shipment volume, according to Volza's export data. The data covers verified shipments across 203 countries, providing insights into market demand and buyer activity. Major exporters and importers are tracked, allowing businesses to benchmark pricing and identify profitable markets.

Price Ranges by Spectrometer Type
Spectrometer prices depend heavily on the type and application:
Mass Spectrometers: High-end instruments used for molecular weight and structure analysis, often costing $50,000 to over $100,000 per unit.
Infrared (IR) Spectrometers: Used for molecular vibration studies, typically priced $5,000 to $50,000 depending on resolution and features.
UV-Vis Spectrometers: Common in chemical and biological labs, generally range from $2,000 to $20,000.

Prices are influenced by resolution, scanning speed, wavelength range, and software integration, as well as whether the device is portable or high-end laboratory equipment.

Market Considerations

The spectrometry market is projected to grow significantly, with a global market size expected to reach USD 9.02 billion by 2028, driven by applications in clinical diagnostics, environmental monitoring, and life sciences. High-end instruments dominate the export market, with less than 15% of players supplying advanced, customizable solutions.

Export prices reflect this concentration, with premium models commanding higher costs.

Practical Implications

For exporters, understanding the type of spectrometer, target market, and buyer requirements is crucial for pricing strategy. Tools like Volza provide verified shipment data and buyer contacts, helping exporters optimize pricing and identify profitable opportunities. In summary, export prices for spectrometers are highly variable, ranging from a few thousand dollars for basic UV-Vis models to over $100,000 for advanced mass spectrometers, with market demand and instrument sophistication being the primary determinants.
